Cryptocurrencies pose a significant risk as the underlying technology is still experimental and unpredictable. Users should not use Signals Platform unless they fully understand the risks involved.

These include, but are not limited to:

A. VOLATILITY RISKS

The cryptocurrency market is still new and its future is uncertain. Whether the market, for one or more cryptocurrencies, will move up or down, or whether a particular crypto asset will lose all or a portion of its value, is unknown and cannot be predicted. Participants should be cautious about holding cryptocurrency and acknowledge its high volatility.

B. UNPREDICTABILITY RISKS

Past performance is no guarantee of future success. Please note that no system or methodology is capable of predicting whether a cryptocurrency will move up or down. No trading bot, strategy or system can guarantee profits or ensure freedom from losses. In using strategies on Signals Platform, there is no implication that the user will make a guaranteed profit or be protected from losses. Signals simply provide information to help users make their own decision.

C. LOSS RISKS

Signals shall not be held responsible to the users for any economic losses, damages or claims of any kind (whether direct or indirect) suffered by the user arising from, or in connection with, the information obtained from strategies on the Signals Platform, guides, videos, tutorials, software, or directly from the Signals website.

D. EXCHANGE RISKS

Cryptocurrencies are listed by independent and unregulated exchanges which do not provide any financial or technical guarantees. Trading on these exchanges might present some difficulties and carry a significant risk of technical failures that can lead to the impossibility to acquire or sell, or even a complete loss of, the cryptocurrencies. Exchanges are independent of Signals and Signals shall not be held responsible for any of these difficulties.

E. LIQUIDITY RISKS

Cryptocurrency markets have differing degrees of liquidity. There is never a guarantee that there will be an active market for one to sell, buy, or trade cryptocurrency. The purchases and sales of cryptocurrencies are performed through exchanges independent of Signals and therefore Signals shall not be held responsible for troubles buying or selling cryptocurrencies.

F. SECURITY RISKS

Users should be wary of allowing 3rd-parties to hold their property for any reason. Having cryptocurrency on deposit or with any 3rd-party in a custodial relationship has attendant risks. These risks include security breaches, risk of contractual breach, and risk of loss.
